DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-18, drawn to a method of inducing an immune response through a prime-boost regimen.

Group II, claim(s) 19-30, drawn to a prime-boost kit of stimulating an immune response.

The inventions listed as Groups I-II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The claims are directed to a method of using a prime-boost kit in inducing an immune response through a prime-boost regimen. However, because Tellier et al. (AIDS, 1998) teach a prime-boost regimen utilizing recombinant canarypox (prime) and feline immunodeficiency virus (boost) for inducing immune responses in cats, no special technical feature exists for groups I-II as defined by PCT Rule 13.2, because it does not define a contribution over the prior art. Note that PCT Rule 13 does not provide for multiple products or methods within a single application. Because the shared technical feature of Groups I-II is not a special technical feature, unity of invention is lacking.

Election of Species

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

No matter which invention is elected, a specific species must also be elected from each group listed below.

A. A specific antigen (i.e., lentiviral vector or APC containing lentivirus) as stated in claims 1 and 19.

B. A specific antigen as stated in claims 2 and 20.

i. If applicants elect iii), a specific virus must also be elected from claims 3, 4, 21 and 22.

C. A specific prime-boost regimen as stated in claims 5, 9-12, 23 and 27-30.

If applicants elect invention I, a specific species must also be elected from the group listed below.

D. A specific first immunogen as stated in claims 14 and 16-18. The species elected in group C. must correspond with the elected species from group D., (i.e., if claims 6 and 24 are elected from group C., so should claim 17 from group D.).

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

- A. Claims 1 and 19 require a specific antigen, all other claims are generic.
- B. Claims 2 and 20 require a specific antigen, all other claims are generic.
 - i. Claims 3, 4, 21 and 22 require a specific virus, all other claims are generic.
- C. Claims 5, 9-12, 23 and 27-30 require a specific prime-boost regimen, all other claims are generic.
- D. Claims 14 and 16-18 require a specific first immunogen, all other claims are generic.

The following claim(s) are generic: all claims are generic.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The antigens, viruses, prime-boost regimens and first immunogens are different based on their physical, chemical and functional properties (i.e., pox viruses and lentiviruses have different nucleic acid genomes, a lentivirus and an APC containing a lentivirus are different entities, etc.).

Summary

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
